Zack Salaysay is a Nurse Practitioner with Legacy Medical Group, with experience providing senior care in skilled nursing and assisted living communities.

He was drawn to geriatric care at a young age when he took on the role of caregiver for his grandfather. His passion comes from helping patients navigate today's complex health-care system, as well as managing the many challenges of aging.

Zack strives to build relationships with his patients, their families, and the staff at First & Main. We believe in partnership and patient and family centered care—where communication and quality of life are always at the forefront of decision making.
